FLU SHOT CLINICS BEING SCHEDULED NOW FOR THE FALL FLU SHOT SEASON

PITTSBURGH, PA, AUGUST 16, 2008-American HealthCare Group, Inc. is helping businesses, senior residences and community organizations plan flu shot clinics that are hosted on-site for their customers and residents. Scheduling a flu shot clinic now is imperative to ensure adequate supplies and promoting the event to those who may be able to attend. Flu shots are free for those on Medicare and whose insurance covers their annual flu shot.

Many types of organizations host a flu shot clinics on site, including pharmacies, schools, office parks, senior living facilities and community centers. In the past, political representatives have also hosted these events and even paid for all or a part of the cost not covered by insurance. It is a great way to serve the community and offer value-added services.

American HealthCare Group, Inc. is a local company that serves large and small businesses to help lower health care costs. Their services range from employee health benefits management to corporate and consumer wellness programs. Their annual conference, Farm to Table Pittsburgh, is held every spring to help draw attention to the importance of eating healthy and supporting local food producers.

If you are interested in getting a flu shot at one of these clinics, or if you would like to host one yourself, please visit www.pathwayswellnessprogram.com or call Sarah Steranka, 412-563-7802. There you can view a calendar of flu shot events or use a contact form to send to the event coordinators at American HealthCare Group, Inc.
